Hi Franky!

I'm sorry you're feeling worried about your weight. You're impossible to be scraggy all the time. Here are my suggestions for you.

If I were you, I'd better go to see a doctor, maybe you have a disease. If that was possible, you'd need to do more exercise, but I suggest not having dieting, it just makes you skinny and bony.

If they still tease you, you should not care about them, no matter how they call you bad names, just tell to your teacher. Also if I were you, I would try making some new friends who are real and true which means that they always talk with you and never tease you. You'll feel better soon.

I'm sure you can overcome this problem. Remember, be confident of who you are!
