A Letter to Mary

Dear Mary,

How are you? Hope you're fine. I want to share the things happened last week to you.

On Monday, I was angry because my friend broke my mobile phone. On Tuesday, I was embarrassed because I fell down when I was performing on the stage. On Wednesday, I was glad that I won a writing competition, and I was a champion. On Thursday, I was nervous because I had an English exam which was coming soon. On Friday, I was sad because I had an English exam but I failed. Last Saturday, I felt very relaxed because I finished the English exam and I went hiking. But on Sunday, I felt extremely stressed because I had five exams this week. I was really worried about my results.

How about you? Can you share your things to me?

Yours,
Chris
